Legislative Committee Update

Amanda Duchardt

CBH/SAA Legislative Director

CBH/SAA friends and family! I hope you are all happy, healthy and practicing archery!

The Legislative team continues to track the progress of the Catalina Island Conservancy's (CIC) application to California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW) to eradicate all mule deer on Catalina Island. At the December Fish and Game Commission (FGC) meeting, members of the public including Catalina residents, CBH/SAA (Amanda Duchardt, Patrick Brannon, and our lobbyist Bill Gaines), and our partners in the California Hunting and Conservation Coalition (CHCC) were allocated 1 minute each to speak on the topic. Together, we provided over 30 minutes of testimony in opposition to the CIC's proposal. Although the FGC has no authority over the application or its approval/denial, CDFW staff was in attendance and was able to hear our side of the conversation and our request for an independent scientific study in partnership with CDFW to determine the number of deer that can be managed on the Island while meeting reasonable conservation goals. Key points of testimony in opposition to the proposal to eradicate deer included:

- Lack of scientific data supporting a decision/need to eradicate deer on Catalina
 - CIC studies lack scientific methodology and rigor (e.g., accurate population counts)
 - CDFW memos note lack of evidence of deer browse and habitat quality inside and outside enclosures being substantially similar
 - Past failed applications by CIC rejected by CDFW based on lack of science
 - CDFW/CIC has time to conduct research and "get the decision right" based on best available science
 - False claims that deer impact native habitats leaving the Island more susceptible to wildfire involving non-native grasses
- Incorrect application process under a Scientific Collection Permit vs Depredation Permit
- Waste of deer/meat associated with aerial eradication methods
- Lack of CIC community outreach and transparency of goals, methods and data
- Concerns about loss of Islanders heritage
- Catalina Islanders mistrust of past Conservancy methods and actions (e.g., feral cats decimated populations of burrowing owls and other ground birds, draining of Cottonwood Reservoir washed all aquatic garter snakes into the ocean, etc.)

- Increased safety risks to people and possible wildfires from aerial eradication methods
- Potential negative economic impacts to Catalina in the short and long and term (e.g., eradication proposed during height of tourism season in August 2024)
- Loss of unique hunting opportunity and CIC's lack of commitment to managing a successful hunting program
- Catalina Island cannot be returned to a "naturalist setting" like the other Channel Islands and would be in conflict with Mr. Wrigley's dream of creating an Island setting for the benefit of the common man (e.g., not extreme conservatism)

Notably, Commission President Erik Skalar stated that the philosophy of the FGC and CDFW is to "follow the science" when it comes wildlife management decisions and encouraged listeners to submit written comments to CDFW. Commission Vice President Erika Zavaleta reiterated Commissioner Skalar's statement that the FGC had no role in the CDFW permit process but her stance on the proposal was less clear stating that she "supports the CDFW process and the science on this because something needs to be done to address both the harm to endemic island species and the growing public safety risks associated with introduced mule deer on Catalina. And other options like letting hunters do the work are either not practical, not effective, or not as safe."

The CIC also provided testimony and is scheduled to hold a Community Forum on January 31, 2024, to talk about the "Catalina Island Restoration Project", including the proposal to eradicate mule deer. Several CBH Legislative Representatives have signed up to attend and will continue to gather information on this important issue. Based on the CIC testimony and information provided on their website, the CIC aims to convert fire prone invasive grasslands back to island chaparral, which they claim is impossible without the eradication of mule deer that were introduced to the island over a century ago. Overall, the goal of providing protection for 60 unique species of plants and wildlife found only on Catalina Island is an admirable endeavor but the threat that deer pose to this goal is unsubstantiated.

The CIC further claims that management of deer populations though hunting is "untenable" because of the "cost for guided hunts and logistical constraints posed by the Island's terrain". However, the cost of hunting on Catalina is primarily driven by fees and requirements mandated by the CIC including membership to the CIC, firearms Liability Insurance with a minimum coverage off $500,000, and a Continued on the next page.

Legislative Updates, cont. $200 exchange fee per tag (half of which is refundable as long as the Private Land Management [PLM] tag is returned to the conservancy office within 5 days of successful take, AND no later than December 26). Despite current costs, there is a waiting list for guide services and tags every year. The idea that the Island's terrain is also a constraint is questionable. Only a small portion of the Island is open to hunting and hunters continue to be successful. To read more about hunting on Catalina Island, refer to the CIC website at <https://catalinaconservancy.org/resources/permits/hunting-permits/>.

If you would like to contribute to our efforts to oppose the CIC proposal to eradicate deer on Catalina based on lack of science and inappropriate use of a Scientific Collection Permit, please donate to the CBH Legislative Defense Fund here: <https://cbhsaa.net/Legislative/Donate>

Switching gears, CBH/SAA representatives (Amanda Duchardt, Patrick Brannon, and our lobbyist Bill Gaines) also attended a CDFW stakeholder engagement meeting regarding the Bobcat Management Plan on January 11, 2024. You may recall, California legislation AB 1254 (effective January 1, 2020), made it unlawful to hunt, trap, or otherwise "take" bobcat, except under special circumstances including a depredation permit. It also tasked CDFW with developing a bobcat management plan to inform and coordinate management decisions regarding bobcat populations. The legislation specifies that the plan shall include (Fish and Game Code Section 4158):

1. A current statewide bobcat population estimate based on the best available science.
2. An assessment of the overall health of the statewide bobcat population (e.g., population trend, disease, toxicant exposure, and genetics).
3. A comprehensive strategy to manage bobcat populations and their habitat throughout the state, including, but not limited to, an assessment of the effects of climate change, such as from drought and wildfires; toxicants; and human development on the state's bobcats, the bobcats' prey, and the bobcats' habitats. The comprehensive strategy shall utilize the principles of adaptive management and incorporate recommendations for monitoring.
4. An investigation of efficacious nonlethal solutions to prevent bobcat predation on livestock, primarily chickens or other domestic animals that the Department of Food and Agriculture deems needing widespread protections from bobcats.

5. Recommendations for regulatory or statutory changes necessary to implement the bobcat management plan.

CDFW initiated the bobcat management plan initiative in 2020, collected data from 2021-2022, and performed data compilation and analysis in 2023. Currently, CDFW is developing the management plan and hopes to have a draft in front of the FGC later this year. The timeline for the FGC to act on the plan is unknown. These efforts always seem to take MUCH longer than anticipated so we'll see...

In general, I was impressed with the comprehensiveness of the study including the number and diversity of methods and data sources that CDFW is leveraging to develop the plan. CDFW identified 48 study areas throughout the state and collected data using camera arrays, fecal DNA, GPS-collar movement, mortality and disease data, and human wildlife conflict data.

How Did I End Up Here?

Mark Sasser
2nd VP Hunting

Well, over the last few months as Rodney and I talked about his retirement as 2nd VP of Hunting and my assumption of his office I've thought in great depth about what kind of fruit I want my time as 2nd VP to produce.

Those thoughts lead my mind back to the early 90s when I first learned about CBH and the Big Game Club. I'd met Gary Campbell at the Bow Hut in Visalia and he, for some unknown reason, took me in and started teaching me about bowhunting the west, particularly California. In 1992 he took me to my first State Broadhead after letting me sleep on his family couch and that's when I signed up for CBH the first time. From that day on I learned as much as possible, I'd spend hours scouting and even more hunting sometimes with friends, often solo, but I had become a California Bowhunter.

Fast forward to 2021 and I take a call from Rodney York asking if I'd be on the Big Game Committee to which I said yes. Last spring, he called again and I ended up being the interim Records Chairman.

So, I shouldn't have been shocked when the topic of 2nd VP came up, Rodney had been grooming me for the last year and thought I was ready. I said no. We talked again a month later and I again said no, it wasn't until deep into hunting season and having had thought about all I love about bowhunting in California that I called him back and said "I'm in."

When interviewing each of our new Big Game Club Committee members, I gave them the mission statement and now I'll share it with you.

"To promote bowhunting in the State of California and honor the animals taken by hunters within the state."

In the next few months, we will focus on making the State Broadhead a tournament that is competitive and bowhunter-focused. I've spoken to anyone I could about past issues they had that kept them away and I'm confident with the minor changes we are making anyone who bow hunts will be pleased.

Once the shoot is in the rearview mirror, I have one focus "Putting the big game back in the Big Game Club."

Oh, and don't forget to Bend it & Send it!

Calling All Carp Bowhunters

JBarr
Small Game Club Chairman

Bowfishing, is a unique and exhilarating outdoor activity that has been gaining popularity among outdoor enthusiasts in our Golden State. Combining the skill and precision of archery with the excitement of fishing, bow hunting offers a thrilling and challenging experience for those who enjoy both sports. Continued next page

Calling All - Continued ~ In this article, we will explore the practice of carp bow hunting in California, including its history, regulations, techniques, and the growing community of enthusiasts who are embracing this ancient yet modern sport.

History and Background

Bowfishing, as a practice, has been around for centuries and has its roots in the necessity for humans to procure food from aquatic environments. What was once a means of survival has evolved into a recreational pursuit that combines the skills of archery and fishing. Carp, an invasive species in many waterways, are a popular target for bow hunters due to their abundance and their detrimental impact on native aquatic ecosystems. In California, where carp populations can be found in various lakes, rivers, and reservoirs, bow hunting for carp has become a way for enthusiasts to contribute to conservation efforts while enjoying the thrill of the hunt.

Regulations and Legal Considerations

As with any form of hunting or fishing, it is crucial for participants to familiarize themselves with the rules and regulations governing the sport. In California, bowfishing for carp is legal in many waterways, but it is important to check with the California Department of Fish and Wildlife for specific regulations, restrictions, and licensing requirements. It is essential for bow hunters to obtain the appropriate permits and adhere to catch limits and any restrictions on Techniques and Equipment

Carp bow hunting requires specialized equipment and a unique set of skills. Bow hunters typically use compound bows or recurve bows equipped with specially designed bowfishing reels and heavy-duty arrows with barbed tips. These arrows are attached to a line, which allows the bow hunters to retrieve the fish after it has been struck. Polarized sunglasses are often worn to reduce glare and improve visibility in the water, as spotting carp can be challenging due to their tendency to inhabit murky or weedy areas. Bow hunters must be adept at judging the refraction of light in the water and compensating for the distortion when aiming at their targets. Additionally, a keen understanding of the behavior and habitat of carp is essential for a successful bowfishing expedition.

Community and Conservation

The community of bow hunters in California is a diverse and passionate group of individuals who share a love for the outdoors and a commitment to conservation. Many bowfishing enthusiasts are dedicated to removing invasive carp from local waterways in an effort to restore balance to aquatic ecosystems and protect native species. As a result, bowfishing not only provides an exciting recreational opportunity but also serves as a valuable tool for managing non-native fish populations and preserving the ecological health of California's waters. Furthermore, the camaraderie among bow hunters fosters a sense of community and shared stewardship, contributing to the overall conservation efforts in the state.

In conclusion, California carp bow hunting is a dynamic and rewarding pursuit that blends archery, fishing, and conservation. As the popularity of bowfishing continues to grow, it is essential for participants to prioritize ethical and sustainable practices while enjoying this unique outdoor activity.

Legislative Updates, cont. Additional data is being gathered from the California Department of Food and Agriculture, California bobcat population genomics survey, CDFW Wildlife Incident Reporting system, and working groups. Want to provide your input? Email the Wildlife Diversity Program at wildlifemgt@wildlife.ca.gov

Based on the data gathered, CDFW will create a model for statewide population estimates. The management plan is expected to provide details about the historical and ongoing management and legislation regarding bobcats, bobcat biology, bobcat population monitoring project, disease and toxicology, prey populations and competition, movement ecology, habitat connectivity, habitat loss, tribal authority perspectives, human wildlife conflict, and adaptive management and population monitoring. Many in the hunting community are hopeful that the bobcat management plan will support a decision by the FGC to authorize a bobcat hunting season commencing January 1, 2025, "in any area determined by the FGC to require a hunt." CDFW staff noted that the plan will include recommendations for sustainable take if hunting is permitted.

But before anyone thinks that a bobcat hunting season is a done deal... I want to note that representatives from Project Coyote and The Center for Biological Diversity also participated in the meeting and were quick to oppose bobcat hunting citing the usual anti-hunter rhetoric about "the majority of Californian's being opposed to hunting." Patrick Brannon (CBH), Mark Hennelly (California Waterfowl Association) and I provided a balanced perspective on hunting and thanked CDFW for their efforts on the plan. We are optimistic that the plan will find that bobcat populations in California are healthy enough to support a hunting season. As always, CBH will advocate for wildlife management decisions supported by the science.

Reminder: Whether you've been involved in archery or hunting your whole life, or are new to this sport, you have something of value to add to the conversation and I encourage you to reach out to me and the CBH Legislative Committee and share your knowledge and experience! We look forward to hearing from you soon!

Citrus Carp

Directions

1. Soak the orange peel in warm water for 20 minutes or until it is soft. Drain, and rinse the peel under running water. Squeeze out extra liquid. Chop the peel and set aside.
2. Make 3 or 4 slashes on either side of the fish and rub the fish with salt. Sprinkle the fish on both sides with cornstarch.
3. Heat oil in a frying pan or wok. When the oil is hot, deep fry the fish on both sides for approximately 4 to 6 minutes per side; both sides of the fish should be browned. Remove the fish from the pan and let it drain on paper towels.
4. Dispense of all but 2 tablespoons of the oil (leave that oil in the pan or wok). Bring the oil back to a high heat, mix in the orange peel, garlic, ginger, and green onions. Stir fry for 30 seconds. Add sherry, bean sauce, soy sauce, sugar and chicken stock. Mix well, then add the fish to the mixture. Cover and let cook for 8 minutes. Serve immediately.

Cyber Attacks

Lori Raupe

Recently, the email that is connected to my business website was cloned or hacked. I'm not completely sure of the correct terminology, but a criminal was impersonating me and sending out emails to my clients and associates.

Being the victim of criminal activity is no fun. Have you be the victim of identity theft? If so you know what I mean. I was so glad that many people responded to let me know. There were even a few kind hearted clients that were ready to send me money! I am grateful they contacted me first, because it wasn't me! Our Webmaster David Bacon is also Helpful and knowledgeable in this area.

I have received many emails to my CBH/SAA email address also, usually these emails appear to be from our president, Chriss. The latest one was so polite!

"I hope you are good. I am reaching out for your help in making a payment to a vendor, through Zelle or Venmo for the association. Stephan is not conversant with these platforms.

"If you're willing to help, I'll provide all the necessary details and ensure you're reimbursed for your time and effort. I am looking forward to hearing from you shortly. Have a nice day."

I couldn't believe they threw Stephen into the mix! That was when it made me mad! Anyway, because this is so prevalent I thought it might be good to give some information to help you. This great article below has steps we can all take.

Think Your Email Was Hacked?

Here's What To Do

(NoIP.com, January 26, 2024, by Hazel Salinas)

Email Security 101: Your Guide for Prevention, Awareness, and Damage Control

What do you do if your email is hacked? We've got you covered.

It's happened to the best of us; you notice something funky with your email, and the word "hacked" starts swirling in your brain.

Maybe you received a notification about unauthorized login activity. Or perhaps a friend/colleague says they got a strange email about how you ran into some gambling trouble in Zimbabwe and need $2,000 wired immediately.

Either way, email hacking is part of life in today's digital age; 58% of organizations have reported suffering account takeover attacks.

Our email accounts are a treasure trove of data, from personal conversations to sensitive financial information. Naturally, hackers want in.

But fear not! No-IP has created this three-part rescue plan to help you avoid or minimize damage from email hacking attempts. We'll focus on:

- Prevention (proactive steps to prevent email hack attempts)
- Awareness (red flags that signal a hacking attempt) and...
- Damage Control (how to minimize the impact of an email hack).

Let's dive in:

Prevention: 6 Ways To Protect Your Email Security

The best offense is a good defense, right? Here's how to minimize the risk of an email hack in the future: Continued on the next page

1. Use strong and unique passwords.

Choosing a password is easy, but choosing a safe password is a different story. You want a long (think: 14 characters) with some indecipherable words included. We've got a guide to creating a strong password if you want to dive deeper.

2. Enable two-factor authentication (2FA)

If you haven't already, consider turning on two-factor authentication for an added layer of security. 2FA requires a verification code (in addition to your password) to access your account. Typically, this code will be texted to your mobile device or emailed to your backup email account.

3. Check if you've been part of a data breach.

Data breaches are unfortunately common nowadays. Free sites such as haveibeenpwned.com & monitor.mozilla.org can tell you if your account information might have been compromised in a breach.

4. Be cautious of phishing attempts.

Phishing emails are designed to trick you into revealing sensitive information. They might be a hacker's way into accessing your email account. Don't click suspicious links and always double-check that your emails are coming from a verified address. Check out our tips for protecting yourself from phishing.

5. Keep your software up to date.

Update your email client, web browser and operating system often to patch any potential security risks. Each update will likely include additional security benefits.

6. Use a secure connection.

Especially if you're accessing emails over public Wi-Fi networks (like a coffee shop or library), ensure that your email connections use encryption.

A combination of Dynamic DNS and an anonymous VPN can help you enjoy private, secure and anonymous online browsing. We recommend exploring more about this dynamic duo.

Awareness:

4 Signs You May Have Been Hacked

Maybe you're already thinking you might be hacked. Or maybe your best efforts still didn't ward off those pesky attacks. Here's how to know if your email is hacked:

1. Unusual account activity.

This is what we mean by "something funky." Watch out for:

- Unfamiliar emails in your sent folder
- Large amounts of spam in your inbox
- Unauthorized changes to your account settings, such as forwarding rules, auto-replies or linked accounts

Any of these could be signs of an email hack.

2. Password change notifications.

Receiving notifications about password changes that you didn't initiate is often a clear indication of unauthorized access. Additionally, if your typical password isn't working, something could be up.

3. Your colleagues, friends and family are confused.

"Uh... I just got an email from you trying to sell me cheap Raybans."

Those are words no one wants to hear. If your contacts start notifying you of suspicious emails from your account, it could be a sign that a hacker is involved.

4. Unauthorized access to other accounts.

We often use our email addresses to log into other third-party apps or services (social media, workplace tools, etc). Unusual activity from those accounts could signal a hacking problem from your email.

The CBH/SAA Legislative Team would like to extend our wholehearted thanks all those that donated to the Legislative Defense Fund. With your donations, the CBH/SAA Legislative Team can attend important meetings and react to issues that are impacting our sport. We can also meet our financial obligations to Gaines and Associates, who represent us in the state capital and FGC meetings throughout the State. Additionally, it is our responsibility to cover expenses such as when we need to retain a legal team to protect us and our sport. This is why your donations, in any amount, are so important. Again, we thank those listed below in addition to those that donated previously for their support!
