IN OXNARD,

& WEST COVINA!

My usual opening line to an article is "I hope this finds everyone well" and I suppose that rings truer now than in months past. These are certainly strange times that we live in right now and it begs one to consider what to actually write about as the archery community, like many has ground to a halt. First off, I would very much like to offer any prayers of encouragement and wisdom to any CBH/SAA member that is without toilet paper. I took time out to deliver some file cabinets full of Big Game Club records to the Scott residence and was promptly informed they were down to the last 3 rolls. When I asked if I could use the bathroom before departing, I was asked by the lady of the house if I was going to use any toilet paper. When I replied "no", I was granted entrance. I suppose that is the depth of our "new norm". On to pressing business...

As most of you know the archery community has been all but shut down completely at least for the next month to 6 weeks. We have seen the cancellations and there will be more. The big Redding 3-day shoot has been on a lot of people's minds as has the Fresno Safari and countless others. There is certainly a huge economic impact to a lot of archery clubs with these cancellations, so I would ask that everyone just be patient and help the clubs where you can.

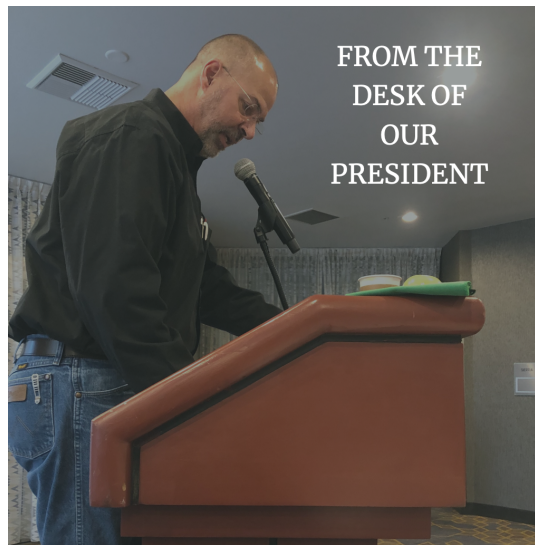

California archery clubs have a variety of land use agreements whether they are on private land or any of the other myriad of BLM, Parks Department, City Parks lands etc. Everyone has a lot to consider right now in the way of land closures and of course liability if someone were to get sick at one of their tournaments. I think understanding is key here and please be mindful that these decisions are not taken lightly and are for the safety of participants and the continuation of our sport here in California.

As for the CBH/SAA State tournaments, I would say we are in a holding pattern for the moment. Rodney will fill everyone in later in the newsletter, but it looks like we will have a decision on the State Broadhead this weekend. The State Field is still a go at this point. I would also like to take a moment and talk about State Field. Without going into detail, the State Field at Straight Arrow Bowhunters in Redding has taken on a rather special meaning for me this year. I would really like to push everyone that is able to fly, drive, walk or crawl to Redding California to come up and shoot the Field if we are able to have it. In the wake of cancelling the Classic 3-day shoot it is VERY important to me that we support the club and the tradition of this great event. Please make some plans and come on out. All other events past that including the State Marked 3D, State Unmarked 3D and State 900 are still planned and expected with more to follow.

A bit about the archery shops. I know I spend too much time talking retail, but these guys and gals are a priceless part of our archery community and are suffering more than many can imagine right now. I spoke with Steve Greenwood of Victory Archery just last night and he brought me up to speed on some of what's going on in the industry. Please keep in mind that while sales reps are still out there working, many of the manufacturers have been shut down. After conversation with some shops, many of them are on limited hours with sales by appointment only. Many have also been forced to layoff the staff and are working countless hours just to keep going. This entire mess is going to take a huge toll. These shops are also selling out of equipment apparently to defend against some coming Zombie apocalypse (I guess the crossbows that can shoot through cars are now all sold out). All that being said, I would really like to push everyone shooting archery in California to continue supporting our archery pro shops HERE in California. I know its easy to buy on-line and I know Lancaster is a nice option, but our local shops are the ones hosting tournaments and JOAD programs. Their the ones getting us those last minute needed items for a hunt or a tournament. Please take the time out to support them. As for shop owners, please be reminded that my archery pro shop forum is still a go for April 19th AT THIS POINT! All that is subject to change of course. More to follow if it does.

I spoke with our government affairs lobbyist Bill Gaines a couple of days ago. The state legislature is planning to be back in session on April 13th and hearing testimony on the 14th.

Legislative Information

By Robert Moore

The next FGC meeting was held March 23rd as a teleconference meeting to discuss experimental fishing permit program. Next meeting is scheduled for April 15-16, 2020 in Sacramento. No agenda has been posted at this writing but should include adoption of big game tag allocations.

The full Commission agenda for this meeting along with supporting information is available at www.fgc.ca.gov. An archived video will also be available in coming days. The next meeting of the full Commission is scheduled for May 14th by teleconference.

The next Wildlife Resources Committee was held Thursday May 14th in Santa Rosa. No Agenda has been posted at this writing.

Legislation 2019/2020, below is a list of bills within the state legislature that we continue to track and providing comment on. These bills have until the end of 2020 to complete or they die. New legislation could be introduced but have to complete by the end of the year or they will also die. This is just a partial list of bills in the state legislature that could affect sportsmen. Not all information was posted before writing this article. The Legislature has recessed till April 13th due to COVID-19.

Legislation that has died: AB 18, AB284, AB688

AB 276 (Friedman) – Firearms: Storage, would require a person who is 18 years of age or older and who is the owner, lessee, renter, or other legal occupant of a residence to ensure that any firearm that person owns or controls is securely stored against theft or unauthorized access while that person is outside that residence. The bill defines a firearm as being “securely stored” if it is secured with an operable device that is listed on the Department of Justice’s roster of approved firearm safety devices and that is identified as appropriate for that firearm by reference to either the manufacturer and model of the firearm, or to the physical characteristics of the firearm that matches those listed on the roster for use with the device.

Update: passed house no in Senate

AB1305 (Olberholte) - Junior Hunting Licenses: Eligibility: Age Requirement; Upon introduction in mid-June, AB 1305 was sent to Senate Rules Committee for referral to the Senate Natural Resources and Water Committee. However, due to the bill’s language being highly similar to AB 284 (which was held in Assembly Appropriations Committee), Senate Rules has yet to refer the bill. With the deadline to be heard in policy committee being July 10th, AB 1305 is now a “two-year” bill which, at best, cannot be heard until early 2020. Update: static

AB 1387 (Wood) – Sport Fishing Licenses: 12 Consecutive Month Licenses; would, in addition to offering California residents a traditional calendar year fishing license, require DFW to offer a license that is valid for 12 consecutive months beginning on the date of purchase upon payment of a fee that is equal to 130% of the cost of the traditional calendar-year sport fishing license. AB 1387 would require DFW to provide applicants for these licenses the option of signing up for automatic renewal of the license by electronic payment and would set the fee for licenses issued upon automatic renewal at the same price as a calendar-year sport fishing license.

Update: static

New Legislation:

SB1041 (Hueso) - Hunting: deer: use of dogs. Current Fish and Game Code 3960 allows the use of one dog for hunting deer during the general season including tracking. Dog use during the archery seasons or tag is not allowed. This bill would eliminate the use of a dog for hunting deer anytime.

Update: April 14th will be discussed in Senate National Resources committee.

SB 1175 (Stern) Iconic African Species Protection Act. This bill has been previously through the Legislative process but was defeated a couple of years ago. The author has reintroduced the same language as before and in a nut shell it will limit you from bringing back certain African species to California from a legal hunt. Update: April 14th will be discussed in Senate National Resources committee.

SB 1372 (Monning) – Wildlife Corridors and Connectivity, would require the state to build off existing programs and plans to proactively protect and enhance wildlife corridors and design infrastructure to maximize wildlife connectivity. Among many other things, the bill would require DFW and the Department of Transportation to coordinate on future transportation and water infrastructure planning and design to allow for maximum wildlife passage features.

Bowfishing 101:

Preparing for the Palo Verde Tilapia Shoot Full version

By Amanda Duchardt

Note: Due to an editor's oversight much of the article was omitted in the April edition of this newsletter. Here it is in its entirety. Apologies to Rodney York and Amanda Duchardt who are generous supporters CBH!

CBH Small Game Club is gearing up for the 2020 Palo Verde Tilapia Shoot April 25-26. If you have never tried bowfishing or don't know how to get started in Palo Verde, here is a quick beginners guide.

First, I want to say that I fell in love with this shoot the first time I shot it. All I knew was that the meet-up location was at Palo Verde County Park and the canals north of the campground had carp and tilapia in them. Two weeks prior to the shoot I did some e-scouting and then put some boots on the ground the weekend prior. Feeling relatively confident that I had a few spots in which I had seen fish, the plan was to stick a few tilapia and carp so that I had something to show at weigh-in and then focus on finding the big ones. The nice thing about this shoot is that you are looking for the biggest single tilapia or carp, so it's anyone's game.

The morning of the shoot, we gathered at the campground, finished registration, and went over the rules. Most shooters walk the canals and river but a few folks had small boats that they launched from town and slowly drifted along the river. A few of the experienced bowfishers recommended trying my luck at the bridge in town. I had my spots picked out but decided to give it a try. At the bridge, the river is wide so the opportunity for big fish is good. But shooting over the railing with a recurve is tricky. I bounced around each corner of the bridge near where the rails were low and kept my eyes on the shallow water. About mid morning, after several narrow misses, arrows bouncing off rocks and getting arrows stuck and unstuck in the cattails, I shot a 1/2 pound tilapia. It was not impressive but I was excited for my first bowfishing success.

It turns out that the bridge is a hot spot for bowfishers to give it one last try before weigh in. It's close to the campground and I had company off and on as other bowfishers walked back and forth waiting for a tilapia or carp to rise to the surface to sun giving us an opportunity to shoot.

My attempts at the largest carp were in turns frustrating, thrilling and soul crushing. I found a few other locations that seemed to hold a steady stream of fish to shoot at, although none were overly big... yet. I stood on the banks of the canal with my earbuds in listening to music, watching the zen movements of smaller fish, and waiting for a shooter to pass between the reeds.

The first time I stuck a carp I shouted out in excitement. He was the biggest carp that I had seen that weekend and he thrashed about and ran down the stream. I battled him back reeling him right to the edge of the bank where he thrashed once more and disappeared Wait... what?...

Bowfishing 101: Continued from page 6 - Two days of firing arrow after arrow and I finally stuck one and he was GONE, just like that! Almost 3 years later and I am still a little crushed that the big one got away about it but I eventually got my first carp at the Isabella shoot a couple months later.

At the end of the tournament, my 1/2 pound tilapia was good enough for second place in the women's division. The women's winner reeled in a 3+ pound tilapia and the men's top tilapia came in at 5+ pounds. A youth shooter also reeled in a number of fish and took home an award and small game species credit. Cash prizes were bestowed on shooters for the top three carp. The largest carp went to a man they call the "Carp Coroner" and a well deserved new state record!

So, how do you get in on the fun? From one beginner bowfisher to another, be prepared to miss, miss, miss... miss a few more times, and then miss again. DON'T give up! Keep in mind that the light refracting off the water means that the fish are deeper than they seem. I've heard people say aim 2 feet lower than where you see the fish. If it's not working, keep tinkering with your aim until you get a feel for it.

As you fish, try to keep the sun at your back. Don't make sudden movements as your shadow across the water will spook the fish. Usually, you will start to see the fish moving at the edges of the banks in the reeds or between rocks. Choose your shot carefully or you risk getting your arrow stuck and losing it. Occasionally, one will come right down the middle of the channel and give you a clean shot. If you aren't seeing a lot of fish or good size fish, pick up and move to a different spot.

Weather also plays a big part in this shoot. The fish are most active and spawning when the weather turns warm/hot and sunny. Check the weather and come prepared with lots of water and extra shade, which is scarce along the open canals and agricultural fields. A cooler full of ice cold beverages at the end of the day is also refreshing.

You've heard the saying: Early bird gets the worm? Well, if you are not a morning person, bowfishing might be the sport for you! The fish will be more active after 10AM when the water/sun starts to warm up. Feel free to sleep in. In addition to the campground, there are several hotels in Blythe and cheap gas just over the Arizona border in Ehrenburg. You can put in a lot of miles driving back and forth along the canals so fill up before you head down to Palo Verde. Gas is NOT cheap at the local station. (Note: Many websites list the campground as free, others indicate that tents are $5/night and RV/Trailers are $10-$15. There may/may not be a host on site who will collect the fee. One reviewer said that if there isn't a host on site, you are to mail payment to the Imperial County planning and development office. Bathrooms may or may not be locked at the time of the shoot. Do your research if you plan to camp. I recommend a hotel because you WILL want a shower at the end of the day.)

Here is a quick equipment checklist for the tournament and for beginner bowfishers:

1- Fishing License: It is legal to take carp, tilapia and many ocean species with archery equipment. In California, it is also legal to take catfish with archery equipment in the Sacramento-San Joaquin River Delta, Big Bear Lake in San Bernardino County, and Lake Isabella in Kern County ONLY. Know your regs and be able to accurately identify what you are shooting at.

2- Polarized sunglasses: You can't shoot what you can't see. Light reflects horizontally off the water surface. When you wear polarized sunglasses, the glasses block the glare by filtering out the horizontal light waves that don't fit through the chemical laminate pattern on the glasses allowing you to see into the water/below the water surface.

3- Recurve or compound bow: Do NOT take nice archery equipment bowfishing. Your bow will get wet, muddy/sandy, and possibly stinky/slimy. I shot my first tournament with a 30 pound PSE recurve (~$100 at Turners). This setup is great for snap/instinctive shooting and won't wear you out shooting all day. After I bought a new compound, my beginner Diamond Infinite Edge became my bowfishing bow. You do not need a high poundage; less than 45 pounds is ideal. Again, you don't want to wear yourself out and a lower poundage can ease wear and tear on your arrows. Don't forget your finger tab, arm guard, bow stringer, release, etc. There are NO shops near Palo Verde or Lake Isabella if you forget something essential.

4- Bowfishing reel: There are several types out Continued on page 8

Bowfishing 101: Continued from page 7- there but I prefer the AMS bowfishing retriever kit (or bottle setup) because they are easy to find and easy to use. They work great for carp and tilapia but you may want something stronger for bowfishing on the ocean. The AMS kits usually come with 25 yards of no tangle line and I recommend that you bring extra. Cattails and other debris can snag your arrow and may be difficult to break free. If you have to cut your arrow loose you will find yourself having to pass on targets that are farther/deeper out because your reach is now limited.

5- Fiberglass arrows: No, you don't use your regular carbon arrows to bowfish. These fiberglass arrows are white/bright colors and are easy to see in muddy water in case you have to go out there and retrieve one. They usually come with a preinstalled slider (to keep the sting in front of your bow) and bumper. Make sure your arrow is tied securely to your line and check the knot regularly. This is another great way to lose arrows and they are not cheap either. I usually bring 2-3 arrows per shooter just in case.

6-Extra barbs and points: Again, there are lots of options here. I prefer the AMS Mayhem because they are easier to get unstuck from the cattails than the AMS Chaos tips. Both will hold the fish on the arrow relatively well while you reel it in. I say "relatively well" because you can and will lose fish - as a beginner, it's emotionally crushing. Points also tend to get dull after you fire them into rocks over and over and having a nice sharp point will increase the penetration on your shot (avoid bounce offs) and the fish will be less likely to flop off your arrow. My first carp probably got away because the arrow only partly penetrated and did not pass through (just a guess though).

7- Rest: A whisker biscuit will work if your arrow is not too heavy but I prefer a bowfishing rest for a smooth release 8- Barrel or trash can: You will need a knife or baton to dispatch your fish and a barrel to hold them in until weigh in. I recommend keeping some water in the barrel as wet fish weigh more than dry/dehydrated fish and this is a competition based on weight! Also, bring some towels and wet wipes to help manage the mess; carp are slimy and stinky.

Best of luck and I hope to see you out there.

Should public events be cancelled?

To protect public health and slow the rate of transmission of COVID-19, the California Department of Public Health has determined that all non-essential gatherings should be postponed or canceled across the state until further guidance is issued by the California Department of Public Health.

There are of course many items on the agenda and I'm sure Robert will have more detail in his Legislative report. Rest assured that we have voices in place in Sacramento to help fight these battles. Big thanks to Joe Becker and others for sitting down and writing letters to their various representatives assailing some of these ill-conceived senate bills and helping us argue against the continued destruction of hunting and shooting rights in California. More to follow in Robert's report.

Now on to other pressing business. I know many bow hunters and outdoorsmen in California have been concerned about the recent poaching incident in Eldorado County and have been curious about the CBH/SAA response. Rest assured that we are keenly aware of the incident and of everyone involved. We have done our due diligence on many fronts and are proceeding accordingly. It goes without saying that CBH/SAA and its affiliated Big Game Club, Hall of Fame and Archery foundation take ethics very seriously. An incident such as this is a complete contradiction to those ethics and must be dealt with accordingly. Our deliberations and votes will not be a matter for public consumption out of respect to those involved. The outcome of those deliberations and our subsequent decisions will be become public at a time and in a manner to be determined by the Executive Board of CBH/SAA.

On to happier things. For those of you with a hunting license please get out in the field! I can't think of a much better way to socially distance. A many of you know, I subscribe to my favorite internet meme "I like black coffee, bourbon and maybe 4 or 5 people" so this whole social distancing thing is a dream come true for many of us. Turkey season will likely be over by the time this comes out but get outside. Take advantage of it. The state has shut down Hunter Education classes for the moment, but I firmly believe we will get opened back up before the big game draw. Now is a perfect time to get out and do a little scouting and maybe check on tree stands, ground blinds and other outdoor equipment in your favorite honey hole. Good luck and be safe.

In closing I would like to thank all of you for your continued support of CBH/SAA. I know this is a tough time and could be even tougher in coming weeks if money and jobs run out. Please remember that CBH/SAA is an organization for and about archers and archery. Call me and let me know what I can do to help. All the Best, Chriss Bowles

Precision UE FOC Traditional Arrows

By Rodney York

This is an overview of what has worked wonderfully for traditional bowhunters.

 Our goal was to begin with the lightest shaft and create an arrow with the most weight forward: with a minimum total arrow weight of 15 grains per pound of bow weight. The best way to increase Forward of Center weight next would be to reduce the weight on the rear end of the shaft and increased weight on the front end of the shaft for mass: this will result in Ultra Extreme Forward of Center (UE FOC) arrow weight. There are many articles you can read which deal with this subject, but none with more expertise than thoughts shared by Ed Ashby.

Another tool which will expedite you calculating FOC is an interactive on-line site listed here.

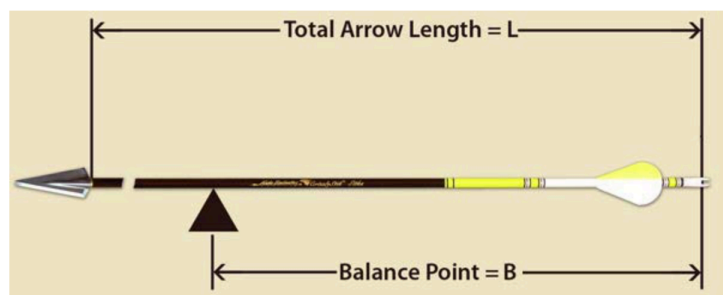

<http://www.grizzlystik.com/Calculating-Forward-of-Center-FOC.aspx>

Start with fewer grains per square inch; (could be target shafts) one or possibly two spine weights stiffer than what you usually shoot. Your arrow length may also turn out to be considerably longer than in the past. Included here are some specific combinations of materials used for comparison purposes.

A). Going from a GT Traditional Classic XL shaft at 12.1 grains per inch you would drop to 8.2 grains per inch by using an Ultra Light shaft by Gold Tip (GT). In a 28.5" shaft you could drop from 344.85 grains down to 233.7 grains weight. This means you can now replace that overall weight with weight on the front end of the arrow creating more FOC. In a .204 ID Black Eagle Rampage .006 Shafts are also 8.2 gpi. All of these figures are in reference to 340/350 spine weights.

1: Make sure that you start with a complete arrow - with your point installed. Measure your arrow's overall length from the valley of the nock (bottom of the groove of the nock) to the end of the insert only. This is what we call "Back of Point" (Do Not include the point in the measurement - but make sure that it is installed in the arrow.) That is your length or value "L". Enter that in the total length field below.

2: With the same arrow - point installed, measure the distance from the valley of your nock to the balance point. That is your balance point or value "B". Enter that number in the balance point field below.

Enter the total length "L": 28.5

Enter the balance point length "B": 19.75

Calculate the FOC

FOC = 19.29824 %

Clear Fields

*Instead of 5 inch feathers (11 grains each), or 4 inch feathers at 8.8 grains each try TrueFlight 2" high profile shield cut fletch at 1.3 grains each.

B). Shooting (4) 2" HP feathers you would be at roughly the same weight as (1) 4 inch fletch. This link will help you with more information about poundage, feather length, Broadhead and FOC for examples (starting point). <https://tradbow.com/forums/topic/list-your-foc-arrow-information-for-wood-carbon-aluminumreference-4-selecting-new-arrows/>

Rear End

Nocks:

In this area you should consider .246 nocks as well as .204 depending on which size YOU settle on.

.246

There is an X nock which weighs 8.2 grains, GT makes a shorter one which weighs 10.2 g grains. Bonjou nocks weigh in at 11.5 grains and GT premium nocks wait 12.7 grains.

.204

GT Accu-tough nocks weigh in at 12 grains, while GT premium nocks are 11.3 grains. Looking for strength? go with .204 ballistic collar Plus the GTO nock resulting in 12 grains. The lightest knock found in the .204 series was made by Quiver ATT packet by HELIM weighing in at 8.6 grains.

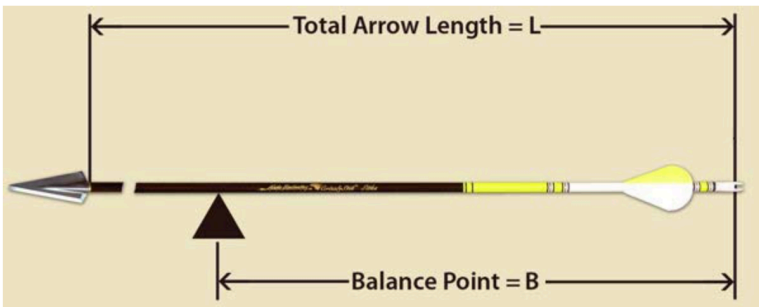

Victory F nock 6 grains to use with Victory RIPXV.

Wraps: Forget them! If you used a 7" this will increase your tail end weight by 12 grains!

Theoretically by now you could have an arrow with 6.8 grains less in nock weight, 17.4 with feather reduction, plus the 12 grains you shaved off by NOT using a wrap. This is HUGE when building FOC!

Inserts:

A reminder here again, is we want as much weight forward is possible. Start with the hundred grain .246 brass insert made by Gold Tip. If you're shooting .204 size shafts you want to go with Easton H.I.T. inserts Or #0255X Beman Axis brass

1: Make sure that you start with a complete arrow - with your point installed. Measure your arrow's overall length from the valley of the nock (bottom of the groove of the nock) to the end of the insert only. This is what we call "Back of Point" (Do Not include the point in the measurement - but make sure that it is installed in the arrow.) That is your length or value "L". Enter that in the total length field below.

2: With the same arrow - point installed, measure the distance from the valley of your nock to the balance point. That is your balance point or value "B". Enter that number in the balance point field below.

Enter the total length "L":

Enter the balance point length "B":

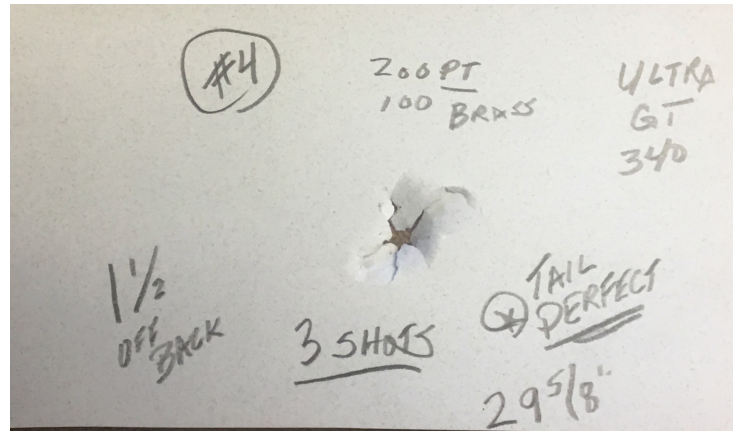

FOC = %

C). If you have a short draw cut off (1") on both ends to start. After this remove 1/4" each time until your bare shaft is neither tail left or right. As it gets close remove 1/8" @ cut.

What you are striving for is no nock left or nock right. All the force of the arrow is traveling straight forward when your bare shaft creates a perfect bullet hole - no left/right tear.

D). Use a G5 A.S.D. tool to square-up shaft shoulder after each cut.

It is extremely rewarding to work-up "new" arrows for yourselves. Looking at history, it is interesting and encouraging to learn how far the arrow industry has developed recently. It is easy to recall some twenty years ago, bow manufactures claimed they had developed about as far as they could; while stating that arrows would be the next great frontier. Turned out so true!

Broadheads continue to be a playground to explore as well. We have all, no doubt tried many different styles and it seems they all have at least one thing we either don't like or disagree with. Of course flight, penetration, durability, plus the amount of hemorrhage are factors which make it hard, or at least more difficult for one head to dominate the field. The weight factor is yet another issue; when considering UE FOC forces one leans heavily towards broadheads starting at 200+ grains as the strongest and easiest method in obtaining this goal. Then consider the ease of sharpening and the ever present cost associated with production of such heads. A lot to deliberate and evaluate as you have read. There is no perfect answer, no fix all remedy to be had. Be assured, this will not be a quick process, but as noted earlier it can be a pleasing and a very worthwhile investment of your time and funds.

400 Spine Weight @ 5.9 g.p.i. with Victory RIPXV
From the GT 340 TRAD Classic @12. GPI 28.5" / 661 grain / 19.29824 FOC to the Victory RIPXV 400 @ 5.9 GPI 28.5" / 600 grain / 34.2105 FOC is it worth some investigation?

Note: The bow used in all these bare-bow shaft selections was a Stalker Wolverine 60" recurve 54# @ 27" draw.

Western Classic Trail Shoot Cancellation

by Pam Severtson

As many of you were notified by email on March 23, Straight Arrow Bow Hunters Board of Directors made the very difficult decision to cancel the 2020 Western Classic Trail Shoot due to the Covid 19 situation.

As all Californians know, we were requested to “shelter in place” by the CDC, health department and government officials. None of us know how long this is going to stay in effect.

By the time of this newsletter being printed, the entire situation may change for the better or may not.

We appreciated all of the positive feedback from the archery community and hope that all clubs and pro shops recover from the impact in a positive way, emotionally and financially.

When this is all over, I hope we see an overflow of support from all archers to the archery tournaments and shops all over California.

I know we will want to see our friends, and there’s no better way than to be outside with your bow and arrows with your friends beside you, competing again, hitting the spots (or not), scoring your arrows, talking about the next shoot you are going to and looking forward to hunting season or the last of outdoor season before indoor ramps up.

Thank you for understanding and our best wishes to all.

Warm, Welcoming Archery Family (Cover Story)

By Lawren Wylie

You can call me Wylie (like the Coyote). As a hard bypass on the most socially cloistered St. Patrick’s Day in the history of mankind, I’d like to say that I’m a proud Scotch-Irish mutt. A strong Celtic heritage has continually reintroduced archery into my life; the people I’ve encountered are the reason I will always keep coming back.

When I was nine I poked a hole through my kilt with an arrow. I’ve done Scottish Highland Dancing my entire life, and the Scottish Games held every year at Prado Regional Park boasted an especially cool archery booth for kids. Every year I would beg to go shoot arrows during the dance competition lunch break! Unfortunately, that year I decided to meander over and shoot at those haybale targets while wearing my brand new Dress Rose kilt. To my mother’s horror, I returned with a gaping hole in my front pleat (where I must’ve rested the arrow to nock). To the nine year old brain it must’ve seemed like a good idea. I received the “William Tell Award” at the studio’s annual holiday party for the next two consecutive years for that bonehead move. Life lesson via archery - pay attention while gettin’ ready to nock and load!

Archery always remained a very sincere interest, but high school and college years never provided any opportunity to pursue it further. Following a promotion at my healthcare company, I moved to Montana to oversee the hospital’s launch of an ER project. (See cover picture) That’s when it all changed for me. I had a fortuitous encounter with Jahna Davis-Jurenka in the parking lot of some random local grocery store - her gracious and authentic willingness to converse with me that day is something for which I will always be grateful! One thing led to another, and I began spending a great deal of time at the archery shop. It was my first real introduction to the welcoming and warm spirit of the archery community - I was, in short, totally hooked.

My healthcare company kept me moving around the country full-time for several years; I always sought out local shooting opportunities. I started coaching Scottish Highland Dancing again when I moved to the Bay Area. One of my dance students came from a very avid hunting/archery family, and I was very glad to be taken under their wing. Sometimes we would trade dance lessons for archery in-services. In growing close with those kids and that family, I did fall in love with the outdoor archery ranges of Northern California, and observed how sincerely state-wide conservation efforts must continue. I also began to understand the degree to which kids and young adults will provide the absolute lifeblood for the continuation of our sport in our state.

Life eventually took me back to Southern California. Since I had now been completely spoiled by outdoor ranges, I researched for the closest such range to my new home. To my surprise, the Oranco Bowmen Range is literally across from Prado Regional Park - where I poked a hole in my kilt with an arrow all those years ago. I plucked up the nerve to waltz into the clubhouse to ask Chriss Bowles for the 411 on membership. I’ve called it my home range ever since.

Wylie and Steve

Continued from page 12- I will never be able to fully relate how appreciative I have become of my family at Oranco - I have met friends there that I will know will be lifelong pals. Becoming acquainted with the larger California archery community has been nothing short of incredible - the kind, generous, and supportive character of the organization cannot be understated. I am brave. But ours can be intimidating for those that are apprehensive of what they do not understand - we're doing a great job already, and should continue to strive to make archery an approachable arena.

A quick hop on the soapbox - I think we all agree that there is an absolute need to have kids and young adults involved in our sport. That said, I cannot iterate the necessity of leveraging social media outlets to draw said interest. The target age group that we need to hone in on venerates social media digital platforms as a primary mechanism by which to interact with the rest of their world. In this technological era, visibility of visual content spikes and sparks interest - regular posting of photos and videos does wonders to draw in more folks to our community. Most of them out there don't know what they're missing! We can all do our part to increase participation by simply sharing our experiences and passion for our sport on digital platforms (tasteful humor heartily encouraged).

Should social media not be your thing, simply send in photos, videos, etc to your range leadership teams. Consider sending in your "throw back" pictures from back in the day - let me tell you, these are super neat for all generations to see!! Let's all help to broadcast the fun and altruism that typifies California's archery community. As we have all observed during recent weeks, social connectivity via technology has become essential the more socially distant we have had to become. It does, however, bear testament to the fact that social media and digital platforms provide opportunities for increased communication, personal expression, and for galvanizing interest.

These are strange times indeed. Paulo Coelho, author of The Alchemist, relates that "an arrow can only be shot by pulling it backward...so, when life is dragging you back with difficulties, it means that it's going to launch you into something great; just focus, and keep aiming.

"Don't know about you, but I sure like that. In the face of these state-wide lockdown challenges, I am feeling privileged to be a part of a community that has banded together while maintaining a hilariously great attitude. Keep those memes coming, we all sure could use a laugh these days! We will absolutely adapt and overcome. From your friendly neighborhood Wylie Coyote, that's all folks. Stay safe, wish you the best, and will close with this Celtic sentiment: "May your troubles be less, and your blessings be more, and nothing but happiness come through your door!"

Common Carp; a bow fishing addiction

By Jack Crabtree

Communis impuneque seligit, the latin term for "Common Carp." This non-native species of fish was first introduced into the United States in the early 1800's and by 1879; California had attained sizeable numbers of the prolific breeders. Carp were first introduced in the state to provide a solution to the public's demand for fresh fish. The rest is history, today carp are considered among the top 100 of the world's worst invaders and nearly every California waterway is loaded with them.

I was first introduced to bow fishing by a California Bow hunters Association (CBH) legend, Art Cain. I believe our first trip was to a local canal, located off Highway 46 and I5, in the spring of 2003. I borrowed a reel from him for the trip and we ended up shooting a few fish that day. That first trip left an indelible impression on me. As I began researching bow fishing I was struck by the lack of information available in regards to the sport and of Common Carp for that matter. The fish is regarded as an invasive species and for those reasons, they are not embraced by sportsman the way bass, trout or other game species are.

I quickly learned that carp will come into the shallow areas of a lake during their spawn. Here carp lay sticky eggs that will attach to aquatic plants. The spawn is triggered when the temperature of the water reaches 68 degrees. The spawn can last for up to two weeks at a time in a given area. There is no mistaking carp in an active spawn, it begins early in the morning, along the shallow areas of the waterway. Carp can be heard usually before they are seen as they will surface and splash along the water's edge. Females will literally be driven into the shallows by males, who then ram into the sides of the females in an attempt to push the eggs out. Carp are oblivious to everything around them during this time and it makes for tons of great shot opportunities.

For years, I routinely hit the lakes in late March, early April, searching for spawning carp. After each spawn ended, I found myself trying to figure out ways to hunt for these elusive fish, but to no avail. Once they returned to the depths, bow fishing became a moot point. In 2019, the bow fishing addiction finally got the best of me and I invested in a 2072 Tracker Grizzly Sportsman. This boat is designed for Bow fishing and has an array of spotlights around the shooting platform. The purchase of the boat put the carp back into the cross hairs. Starting in mid-April, Trips out to local lakes proved successful, the lights illuminated the carp just off the shoreline, allowing for numerous shot opportunities.

The action peaked in May with consistent 25 fish nights. In June, the water began to turn and with the increase in temperature, the bow fishing came to an abrupt halt at the lower elevations.

Not wanting to call it quits, I looked into some lakes at the higher elevations. A local lake at the 5,000-foot elevation, not exactly known for bow fishing, turned into another month of solid action, as the carp spawned much later, due to the water temperature being so much colder. The first year of steady bow fishing has proven invaluable and provided numerous lessons. The lack of literature concerning these fish means going out consistently to check water temperatures and observing behaviors throughout the year.

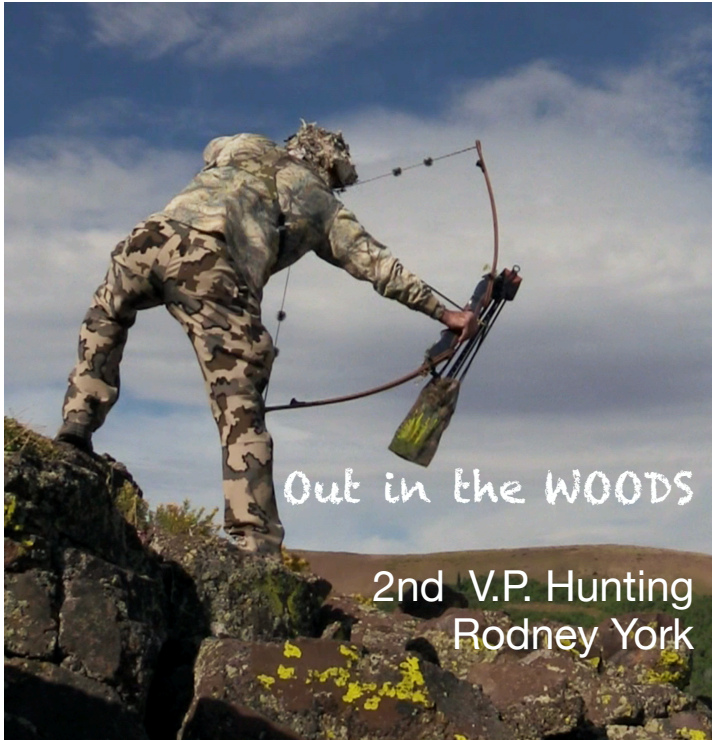

Interestingly enough, (pictured on page 15) we got into the biggest fish of the year in January, with my brothers and I, taking fish in the mid-twenty pounds range. So an activity once reserved for a short time during the spawn has now become year round enjoyment.

As I write this, I am eagerly awaiting the spawn, March started out promising, with the water temperatures steadily moving into the 60's range. However, the last two weeks were hit with a cold front and a lot of rain. The rain while welcome, has pushed the water temperatures back into the 50's. So hopefully by the second week in April, the spawn will be in full swing in the lower lakes.

Crazy Times - Moving Forward

What crazy times we live in! Like dawn spreading across the land, this virus. All of our lives have been changed in ways most of us could have never imagined. So many things most of us took for granted are no longer routine. Our world of archery has not been spared either. State conventions, archery shoots and fund raisers have been canceled or postponed. Even drawings across the west for coveted hunting tags have some of the fewest applications submitted in years.

At this writing your Big Game Committee has yet to cancel the tilapia shoot, State Broadhead tournament, carp shoot, nor the un-marked 3-D shoot. Be certain to routinely check our cbh/saa website and social media outlets for fliers and "give- away and for changes which may be made. The committee met in Visalia on March 14th and discussed all the events of the year. What a great group of talented and dedicated individuals. The 3 1/2 hour meeting proved a very cohesive gathering, all looking to move forward promoting archery and bowhunting. Our Records chairman, Bret Scott is already digging deep into his job; reviewing applications, verifying details and checking entries for accuracy.

As a reminder, if you either submitted an animal as an individual or as a measurer and have not yet received a certificate or verification, please contact me, Rodney, ry69bgc@gmail.com 559.877.2701 or Bret Scott cbhbgc.records@outlook.com 951.202.0140. In this issue of our newsletter Lawren Wylie shares her thoughts on what motivated her interest in archery and becoming involved in an archery club and our state organization. She also offers encouragement and a challenge to all of us. Reading further you will discover more about becoming a bow fisherman, in an article written by Jack Crabtree. He explains things he has learned which may not only be useful, but save you time and research before your carp expeditions. Also within these pages you will find an article about building hunting arrows with ultra-extreme weight forward to improve your arrows' penetration. Stay safe, be careful and be kind - we could all use these.

Common Carp; a bow fishing addiction, continued from page 14 - I know for those of you as addicted to bow fishing as I am, there is nothing more exciting than the carp spawn. There is so much more to talk about in regards to this sport, hopefully in future articles the subject of accuracy and light refraction can be discussed at length [I know I am working on one currently].

Thank You for your Donations to the CBHSAA Legislative Defense Fund!
By Robert Moore- Legislative Coordinator

I want to thank those that have donated funds to our Legislative Defense Fund. With your donations, your Legislative Team, representing the six DFG Regions, can attend important meetings and react to issues that are impacting our sport. We can also meet our Financial Obligations to Gaines and Associates who represent us in the state capital, at all DFG meetings, and up and down the state when and where needed. Their goals are to promote wildlife conservation and protect our archery and hunting heritage within the state political system. However, we are, and always will be, responsible for all costs over and above their obligation to us. That is, when CBH/SAA has to retain a legal team to protect us and our sport, it will be at our expense. This is why your donations are so important to the Legislative Defense Fund in any amount you can afford. Again, I would like to thank those listed below in addition to those that donated previously for their support.

THANK YOU

THIS MONTH'S DONATIONS INCLUDE:
AMANDA DUCHARDT $50, DANA SPARKS $20,
MARTY BAREFIELD $20, BILL ESKRIDGE $20
