Urgent Call to Action: Help Save the Catalina Island Mule Deer

The ongoing legal fight to protect Catalina Island's mule deer from total eradication is reaching a critical turning point. We hope to conclude this litigation in the coming months, but defending California's wildlife in court is a massive financial undertaking. The California Deer Association (CDA) has stepped up to carry the heavy financial burden of this lawsuit. While CBHSAA, OBFA, and Oranco Bowmen have each contributed $1,700 toward the fight, these donations barely scratch the surface of a rapidly growing legal bill. CDA needs our collective help to finish this fight. Adding to the urgency, the Catalina Island Conservancy (CIC) is offering what we hope will not be the island's final deer hunt this fall. Please note that this upcoming hunt is restricted to local residents only.

How You Can Help

We are asking our members, clubs, and conservation partners to step up and support the legal effort: Donate: Make a contribution directly to the CBHSAA Legislative Defense Fund at <https://cbhsaa.org/Legislative/Donate>

Earmark Your Contribution: When you donate, please contact Legislative Director Amanda Duchardt and Treasurer Heather Tucker to notify them of your intent so your funds are strictly earmarked for the Catalina litigation. Every dollar counts toward ensuring science-based wildlife management prevails over complete eradication. Thank you for standing with CBHSAA and CDA to protect our state's hunting heritage and natural resources!

Top 5 donors on/before November 8 will be gifted our original 2023 CBHSAA Legislative Defense Challenge Coin commemorating the start of our fight to save the deer on Catalina.

I AM A BOWHUNTER

By Wayne Raupe,
Immediate past President

IN THE TREE STAND -LOOKING DOWN

For the last 12 years I have been primarily a tree stand bowhunter, and a bowhunter since childhood.

Tree stand bowhunters get to see nature from a perspective that most people, and even other hunters don't get to see. We sit quietly for five or six hours at a time. Normally, sitting from 5:30am to about noon and then from 4pm to half an hour after sunset, waiting for target animals. While we patiently, or impatiently wait, we get to watch mother nature undisturbed. Here are a few of the many encounters I have personally seen and enjoyed.

Deer

I was watching 14 doe, fawns, and small bucks feeding in front of me. I heard nothing so I was surprised to see heads go up and the deer seemed to be nervous.

Without warning, all of the deer bolted, and with in seconds were up the far hillside, over the top, and out of sight. I sat still and thought there were two reasons for this behavior. #1. Another hunter was walking into the area. Or... #2. A predator was approaching which could be a bear, mountain lion, or maybe a pack of coyotes. So, there I sat waiting... but not for long...

A young black bear was at the bottom of my tree smelling the bottom step. I wasn't ready to take pictures of it when it was at the bottom of my tree as it caught me off guard. It was below me instead of in front of me or on either side of me where I expected it to be. It was most likely from the same gene pool as a big sow with a blonde mane that you will read about in A Dope On A Rope next month, look for the article... this young bear had a dark brown body and a blond mane with blond hair running down its back. Continued

BEAR TWIN WITH BLOND MANE

<https://cbhsaa.org>

Bowhunter from page 3- Now here is the crazy part. My hunting partner Bob King had just sent me a picture a couple of minutes earlier of a young bear, the same size, with exactly the same dark brown body with a blond mane and blond hair running down the top of its back. That bear was headed north and disappeared over the top of the hill north of Bob. I was in a stand $\frac{3}{4}$ of a mile south of Bob. So, it could not have been the same bear which means the two bears were most likely twins, they were about 2.5 year olds. I did get some pictures of my bear twin bear when it was just 15 yards from me. I also took a photo looking down (previous page) from my tree stand with the view of the climbing steps on the tree and the base of the tree, this is where the bear had been.

BOB'S BEAR TWIN WITH BLOND MANE

3 x 3 Mule Deer

A 3x3 mule deer buck walked past the tree I am sitting in. He stopped 5 short yards from me and tested the wind with his nose up in the air. Confident that everything is safe he starts feeding and goes about his day.

Chasing a Squirrel

A doe mule deer was chasing a gray tree squirrel up a tree and then the squirrel played peek-a-boo from the back side of the tree scurrying from one side of the tree to the other side peeking around at the doe.

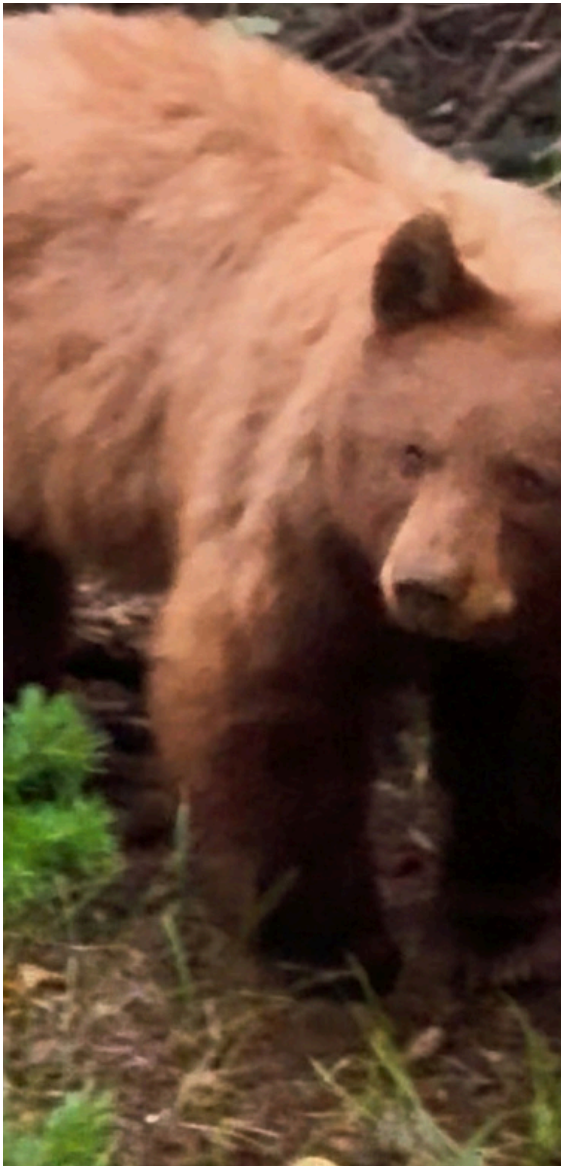

Grouse

A grouse inches its way up the slope to my right, feeding as it moves. Soon it is roosting time, and it sees the 140 foot tall Quaking Aspen that it wants to spend the night in. He leaps off the ground and with wings beating the air furiously and loudly he ascends to the top branches 160 yards away, across the creek, where he settles in for the night. Continued.

Tree Stand Boredom

Bob was in his tree stand, and all had been quiet for the last four hours. He was holding onto the end of his tether which had a big knot in the end, and this kept him from leaning to far forward or to either side as he nodded off. These sits can be really boring when there is nothing going on,. And just to complicate the time spent sitting in the tree stand is the lack of sleep. So, it is not unusual for us to be really tired and subsequently we nod off often, ergo the tether and the climbing harness.

Bob woke up and scanned the area and caught some movement behind him and to his left. Due to the thick timber, he couldn't tell what it was at first, so he raised his binoculars and saw a big brown bunch of fur moving silently. As the animal proceeded forward, it came to the trail that entered a little clearing 18 yards from Bob's position in the tree.

It was a big black bear bore, in the brown color phase. The bear turned right on the trail and then paused at the edge of the opening. He looked toward Bob. Bob didn't move. The bear continued looking at Bob then surveilled the area. The big boy didn't seem to be alarmed. He then continued moving silently from Bob's left to his right and crossed the clearing, disappearing into the dark timber.

Needless to say, Bob was awake for the rest of that time in the tree stand. Adrenaline stays in the system for a while after something like that. And oh, did I tell you? Bob was not very comfortable knowing there was a bear in the area. And this BIG boy had all of Bob's senses on high alert. He did manage to snap a photo to send to me.

Busted

Bowhunter from page 5- A coyote came into Bob's area with his nose in the air in stealth mode. Bob had killed a buck the day before and we took it out prior to field dressing it. Bob still had an elk tag to fill, and we didn't want to foul the area, nor did we want bears coming in to clean up the gut pile. However, there was some blood on the ground, and the coyote went directly to it. Then it looked up into the tree where Bob was seated and Bob got this pic... Did Bob get busted or did the coyote?

Damaged Ear

A doe mule deer walking through the brush busts me and stops with her damaged ears forward to detect any sound that I may make. Am I a danger or just an odd-looking old harmless object. It appears that she escaped an earlier brush with death as her right ear is missing the top one third and her left ear was also torn. She stared at me for a couple of minutes, and got comfortable with this nonmoving object and she settled into the grass for a nap and chew her cud.

Thirsty Turkeys

In the early morning at first light, I hear turkeys talking and then I hear the distant sound of 15 turkeys flying down from their night time roost. Thirty minutes later I see movement in the grass and in single file the turkeys come to the natural spring on the side of the mountain at 10,500 feet. I sit, watch, and photograph them. One hour and 40 minutes later a lone coyote comes into the water from the opposite direction. It drinks water cautiously and then leaves.

Off in the distance I hear the sounds of hounds baying as they are on the scent of a bear. I'm looking for any movement in the area and seeing nothing that could have been spooked by the hounds. Their sounds fade into the far canyons, and all is quiet again.

I see movement downhill and to the left of my tree. It is a 1-and-a-half-year-old black bear cub making his way up hill. It wasn't in a hurry as it passed my tree stand. And I got to watch as it made its way past the natural spring and into the aspen and disappeared. Continued.

ELK DOMINATION

Elk came down the trail towards a small natural spring and my tree stand. Cows with calves are not on my target list. Two cow elk, one, an older and mature dominant lead cow, the other was a big younger adult cow. The younger cow was the challenger for the position in the herd hierarchy. The younger one struck the older one on her hindquarters with her right front foot. That caused the dominant cow to turn and face the challenger. Both combatants reared up on their back legs, striking each other with their front feet in this test of dominance. The challenge lasted about 15 seconds, and they dropped to the ground. The dominant cow struck the challenger again in the chest and it is over. The older cow's position as the dominant cow was unchanged.

Bobcat Mama

I catch movement 45 yards in front of me in a thicket of brush. As I watch I see the twitch of a white and black tail. I put my binoculars up and to my surprise I saw a mother bobcat and four kittens. Mama is looking for food, and the kittens are playing leapfrog on a log and knocking one another off.

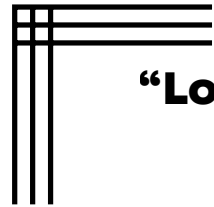

I do a lip squeak to see if I could get them closer. Success! Mama started walking toward me, so I shut up. The kittens are all playing and bringing up the rear. Two of the kittens are wrestling on the ground and the other two are climbing trees. Mama was directly under me and two kittens spring off a standing tree and knock Mama almost off her feet.

Porkie Pine (Porcupine)

In the gray of an early morning dawn, I noticed something doing a slow waddling movement below me and about 15 yards away. It is moving on the trail that passes under my tree stand. For a moment, I watched, trying to figure out what I was looking at. Unable to ID it with my old eyes I pull out my binos to get a close up. As it rounded the brush blocking a clear view of it, I realize it is a young porcupine about the size of a baseball. I watch as it waddles past me on its way to its next pine tree bark dinner. Continued

Bowhunter from 7- I watched a white-tailed deer 15 yards in front of me chew her cud. I can see her swallow her cud and then bring up another to chew. One lump up, chew for a while then one lump down, then repeat. As I watch her, I notice movement in an oak tree to her left. The tree had an 8-inch knot hole in it and two young raccoons were emerging from their home. They sat on an adjacent limb and on the lip of the hole to get warmed up from the sun before disappearing back into the hole and safety. To be continued next month.

“Look deep into nature, and then you will understand everything better.”

Who doesn't like an easy and fast desert? This air fryer apple crisp is the perfect single serving dessert that cooks up in 20 minutes. Serve with a scoop of vanilla ice cream and a drizzle of caramel sauce for the ultimate fall dessert. Enjoy!

Equipment

Air Fryer
Mini Dutch Ovens aka mini round cocotte

Ingredients

1 apple peeled and diced
1 teaspoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon maple syrup
softened butter for buttering ramekins
Oatmeal Topping
1 tablespoon butter melted
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons rolled oats
1 tablespoon flour all-purpose
1 tablespoons brown sugar

The deadline for the November Newsletter is:
October 10th!
Send your photos, stories,
and/or articles to
Lori Raupe
cbh.newsletter@cbhsaa.org
Thank you in advance!

Instructions

Preheat the air fryer to 350°F.
Wash, peel, and dice apple into small pieces. Combine diced apples, lemon juice, white granulated sugar, cinnamon, and maple syrup together in a bowl. Butter a cocotte or ramekins and spoon in the apple mixture .
Air fry for 15 minutes or until apples are cooked through.
In a bowl, mix together butter, brown sugar, oats, flour, and cinnamon.
Top apples with oatmeal topping and cook for another 5 minutes.
Serve with a scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Notes

The best baking apples for this recipe are Gala, Pink Lady, or Granny Smith. Scale this recipe for the amount of servings you need, just check how many ramekins fit in your air fryer basket at once, you may need to cook in batches. Air fryers cook differently depending on your model so keep that in mind when making this recipe.

Have you considered donating to the CBH/SAA Legislative Defense Fund?

Now is the time!

With your annual donation of $100 (e.g., ~$9/month or cumulative $100/year donation) to the CBH Legislative Defense Fund, we would like to thank you with a gift of the CBH/SAA Legislative Defense 2026 Challenge Coin. This year's coin memorializes our ongoing efforts to ensure timely completion of the Bobcat Management Plan and restoration of bobcat hunting in California based on science.

To donate, visit <https://cbhsaa.org/Legislative/Donate>. Thank you for your support!

THANK YOU for your donations to the CBH/SAA Legislative Defense Fund

The CBH/SAA Legislative Team would like to extend our wholehearted thanks to all those that donated to the Legislative Defense Fund. It is our goal to promote wildlife conservation and protect our archery and hunting heritage within the state political system. With your donations, the CBH/SAA Legislative Team can attend important meetings and address issues that are impacting our sport. We can also meet our financial obligations to Gaines and Associates, who represent us in the state capital and FGC meetings throughout the State. Additionally, it is our responsibility to cover any legal expenses when we need to retain a legal team to protect us and our sport. This is why your donations, in any amount, are so important. Again, we thank those listed below in addition to those that donated previously for their support!

Lily Pierce $100

THANK YOU!
